

Supporter Sweep Links

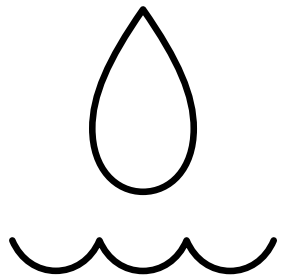

“I am learning, how we can improve our local economy, about how to sell our product” said Cardamom farmer and program participant Ricardo Pauu Xol. Read how Mercy Corps supports access to modernized farming practices and technologies helping to boost and sustain livelihoods in the Alta Verapaz region. (5 min read)

Have you ever had a cup of Yogi Tea? If you have, chances are that you’ve likely tasted the product of their partnership with Mercy Corps! Through the ‘Sourced with Care’ program we’re providing on-site training in regenerative farming practices to help keep forests safe, reduce emissions, and enhance farmers’ productivity. (40 sec video)

In Panimatzala, helping people develop and grow into their whole selves is Aracely’s passion - she is one of the women who graduated from our AgriJoven program. Now with expanded access to economic opportunity, she’s become a licensed psychologist who provides mental health support to women in her community. (5 min read)

Supporter Sweep Links

Our WASH teams reached more than 13 million people in 2021, and we don't plan to stop there. Meet Olivia, whose leadership is paving the way for a stronger future by providing clean water to students through a water purification system installed by Mercy Corps in the Cobán region. (5 min read)

The Humanitarian Network recently released a Mercy Corps publication highlighting our partnership with Remitly. The partnership aids the flow of remittances from the US to Central America in advance of forecasted storms to help mitigate damage from climate emergencies. (10 min read)

Embark on a journey to the Sololá region of Guatemala, where you'll learn of the remarkable achievements of the MAS II program, dedicated to safeguarding and enhancing the agricultural livelihoods of small-holder farmers. (6 min video)

